SCWorx Acquisition Closed
Initial Listing on Nasdaq Approved
Begins trading under symbol WORX

NEW YORK--(BUSINESS WIRE) – February 4, 2019-- SCWorx, Corp. (f/k/a Alliance MMA, Inc.) (Nasdaq: WORX) announced the Company successfully completed the acquisition of SCWorx Corp. on February 1, 2019. Additionally, the Company completed its initial listing on the Nasdaq and begins trading under the symbol WORX on February 4, 2019. As a result, the Company has over $5.0 million of cash to fund its growth strategy.

“SCWorx started as a small team of hard-working individuals focused on providing the best SaaS based advanced solution to help manage health care provider’s complex supply information. With the recent healthcare reform, hospitals are relying on larger technology applications such as enterprise resource planning (“ERP”) solutions which provide the necessary operational components to manage the extremely complex and intricately woven business of healthcare. These large and sophisticated systems require a constant flow of rigid, structured data to function in an optimized fashion. For a variety of reasons not the least being that the majority of healthcare data is manually created, the data currently populating these large and connected systems is inconsistent and variable. Our SaaS based suite of content delivery systems contains the necessary artificial intelligence (“AI”) to rapidly repair and expand the data, providing highly granular, synchronized real-time data seamlessly integrated via automation back into all the major foundational system applications used by healthcare providers”, said Marc Schessel CEO. Schessel added, “With the completion of the acquisition and listing on the Nasdaq, we now have the capital to grow our business and develop additional features and functionality our customers are requesting from us. Being a Nasdaq listed public company strengthens our stature with current and potential customers”.
